Course description :

Lessons will be based on a video course, Interchange Intro. Sixteen lively and entertaining episodes present dramatized sequences and short, authentic documentaries. Real American English spoken at natural speed, some of the language will be difficult for students to hear word for word, but actions, body language, and graphics make for overall comprehension. There will be lots of repetition : watching the video, Q & A about the video, practicing expressions and structures using the Video Activity Book and pair exercises, cloze listening, reading the video transcripts, acting out the dialogues, watching the video again, . . . with emphasis on reaching the point where students can watch the video and truly comprehend the language they are hearing. Through this it is hoped that students will begin to be able to converse simply, using expressions and structures acquired.

Textbook :

* Interchange INTRO Video Activity Book *, Jack C. Richards, Cambridge University Press.

Grading :

Based on attendance, classroom participation, oral and written quizzes.

Requests to students :

This is a Conversation Class, so attendance is mandatory. 100% attendance is strongly urged. Students must bring their textbook, a Japanese-English AND English-Japanese dictionary, and a looseleaf notebook, to every class. Students MUST try to participate actively in classroom activities and discussions.
